

Thank you to the entertainers.

Going into our last weekend, we find ourselves looking back to when this all began. Whether it is the second festival, for Kendall and Gwen, or the first as it is for Kandis and Bitsy, we all share one thing in common, the feeling we get when we see you all transform yourself into something unbelievable, your character... It is amazing to us that each one of you can come through these gates each weekend and put your lives on hold, your jobs and families, to give your gift of talent to make our patrons believe in the magic of this festival. It is your passion and dedication that makes our job so rewarding, and no matter how chaotic and frustrating things can get during the week, it is all worth it when we hear the cannon go off each weekend morning. We would like you each to take a moment to smile because that's what you do for us, make us smile. Thank you so much for such a great season!
